

British Invite Three To Join With Herself and France In Air Pact

Germany, Italy and Belgium Get Chance to Join Military Aviation Alliance Designed To End War by United Air Forces.

PROVISIONS

If One Nation of Group Should Start War, Others Would Unite Air Fleets Against Her.

London, Feb. 4 (AP).—The British government today invited Germany, Belgium, and Italy to join with Great Britain and France in a military aviation alliance.

This alliance, agreed to in conversations over the week-end between leaders of the British and French governments, would provide a union of military air forces by four of these signatories provided the fifth signatory should suddenly attack any other member of the alliance.

Even as they formulated this plan for European peace, the Franco-British leaders agreed to support a move for the general recognition of Germany's right to rearmament, provided Germany returns to the League of Nations from which she resigned nearly two years ago.

The British invitation to the other three powers concerned to enter negotiations toward the military pact, was made through Great Britain's diplomatic envoys in Berlin, Brussels, and Rome.

Germany Might Re-arm

The Anglo-British agreement provides that Germany, Italy, and Belgium shall unite with France and Great Britain in such a pact and also recognize Germany's right to rearm provided the Reich re-enters the League of Nations.

The reaction in Berlin was not especially warm, officials there describing the agreement as "old stuff" although they indicated that they were favorably disposed toward the aviation alliance.

In Rome, an Italian government spokesman said he doubted if Germany would return to the League of Nations and said he also doubted whether Italy could enter the aviation alliance. The Italian government, he indicated, approved of the idea of such an alliance but suggested that, because of geographical reasons, it would be impracticable.

The reaction at Brussels appeared the most favorable of all, since Belgium long has hoped for a military aviation alliance which would save her from the danger of a sudden air attack.

U. S. Will Blacklist All the Unfair Nations

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP).—The government took steps today to retaliate against its antagonists in international trade by "black-listing" nations which discriminate against American goods.

First to go on the "black-list" was Soviet Russia. Negotiations toward settlement of the Russian debt to America collapsed last week, thereby blasting hopes of immediate trade revival between the two countries.

Officials declined to reveal the names of other offending nations, but it was expected they will be announced on the occasion of the signing of a pending trade agreement with Belgium, which is among 15 not being negotiating.

At present there are 35 countries with exchange control regulations or some other form of import limitations that affected American trade. Among them are France and Germany, but it was stated that not all these could be classed as discriminating against this country.

County Authorities Eager to Start the Route 9-W By-Pass

County Attorney Ewig States That The County Committee Is Doing Everything Possible to Bring The Entire Negotiations to an Early Conclusion.

"The county authorities are cooperating with the city to the fullest extent in the matter of the Route 9-W by-pass," stated County Attorney Arthur B. Ewig today to correct an impression which he said might be gained from an article previously published in The Freeman that "The county... had not secured options."

Mr. Ewig explained that the county committee on rights of way received the rights of way maps, necessary to the beginning of any negotiations with property owners on the new route, only on January 25, and that the state had requested that negotiations be had on certain properties only when a state representative was present because certain of the owners were also involved in the Saugerties road crossing elimination.

It was the county attorney's opinion that even if it were necessary for the county committee to condemn certain properties and advertise such proceedings, that it would be possible to begin construction by April 1, the date set by the city as the latest possible time for such construction if the project is to be completed this year.

Mr. Ewig stated that meetings of an unofficial nature as far as the actual negotiations were concerned had been held from time to time, and that the county was ready to begin operations at any time. Mr. Ewig's information was that a representative from the state department would be in Kingston today and that there would be no delay in the beginning of proceedings. He said that the county committee, headed by Superintendent Williams of Highland, and himself had accepted an invitation to talk over the entire question at luncheon today and he expressed the hope that the state representative would be present at this time.

The county's job in securing rights of way for the by-pass is more difficult than that in the city," Mr. Ewig said, "because we have to acquire properties from nine individual owners, involving the taking of considerable land." He explained that the city was obtaining much of its land from city streets already laid down, from Alms House property, and that less than "400 feet must be taken by negotiation with individual owners."

A study of the city right of way maps reveals that there are three owners who have given options to the city for the taking of land, and that five additional owners have been satisfactorily negotiated with concerning the permission of using parts of their properties for drainage purposes necessary with the widening of certain parts of the present roadbed involved in the project. The county authorities must negotiate for about one and a half miles of property over which the new road will be laid.

Mr. Ewig stated that the county committee is doing everything possible to bring the entire negotiations to an early conclusion, and emphatically denied that the committee had been lax or was trying to hold up the proceedings. "We are ready to begin negotiations," he said, "and action will be taken as soon as the state representative is ready to be." With the expected arrival of the state representative today he expressed the hope that immediate action would be possible, and opined that the negotiations would be brought to a successful conclusion in time to begin work at the gate to the city to complete it this year.

SHIP DISASTERS

Reflection of Ship Disasters in the Recommendation Sum Be Increased for Steamer Inspection.

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP).—The house was advised by its appropriations committee today to provide the state, justice, commerce and labor departments a total of $98,185,500 for expenses in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1936. This is $6,164,417 more than was allowed them this year.

The bulk of the increase represented restoration of salaries to the full 100 per cent level. But committee's hearty approval of the justice department's anti-crime drive and the labor department's work in gathering statistics led to other important boosts.

The committee stepped the bureau of budget's estimate for anti-crime work up $300,000 to a $5,000,000 total, or $629,000 more than 1935. To the bureau of labor statistics it gave the largest increase for additional personnel, $356,600 more than the $223,000 appropriated this year. It also approved $200,000 to continue a cost-of-living inquiry.

The $98,185,500 total for the four departments was only $1,449,267 less than budget recommendations. Of this, the state department drew $13,739,000—$1,650,484 less than this year, and $95,100 under budget estimates. The justice department's share was $3,450,000, an increase of $528,791 over current funds and only $182,120 under the budget. For the commerce department, $34,486,500 was recommended, an increase, likewise, of $2,960,915 over 1935 appropriations, but $250,215 under the budget figure. The labor department's allowance for 1936 of $15,500,000 was $1,325,195 larger than that granted this year, though $821,822 under the budget.

A reflection of a recent ship disaster was contained in the committee's recommendation that the bureau of navigation and steamboat inspection be given the entire $1,598,000 estimated by the budget, or $233,136 over 1935.

Other developments in the capital: The Senate Judiciary Committee (J. Edgar Hoover) has enough before it "to certify the record to the United States attorney to learn whether perjury is involved."

The senator would allow veterans to cash their certificates in government obligations. In other words they would have credit to the amount of their certificates on home owners' loans or housing undertakings or other federal propositions.

Legislation extending from next March 1, to April 1, 1936, the time allowed air mail contractors to divest themselves of more than one primary route was approved by the house post office committee.

The senate accepted the conference report on the $24,000,000 deficiency bill which restores on April 1 remaining third of 15 per cent government pay cut. House action will send the measure to the White House.

A senate investigation of railroad financing was proposed by Chairman Wheeler of the senate interstate commerce committee.

An appropriation of $10,000 would be authorized. The resolution pointed out the government and the public have invested billions of dollars in the railroads and may be soon asked for more.

Chairman Doughton (D-N. C.) said that the ways and means committee must bring the administration's social security bill up on the floor "early next week for passage. He arranged to conclude open hearings by Wednesday, and expressed a hope that the committee would finish amending the measure by the week-end.

Doughton's prediction was made after Edwin C. Witte, director of the president's committee on economic security, had assailed the Townsend $200-a-month old age pension plan, contending it would "stop all business."

Supreme Court Holds Congress Has Power To Punish For Contempt

Decision Affirms Ten-Day Jail Sentence Imposed by Senate on W. P. MacCracken, Jr., For Failure To Produce Data.

RECORDS TAKEN

Found Guilty After Testimony That He Permitted Clients to Withdraw Subpoenaed Records.

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP).—Marking another significant milestone in the development of jurisprudence, the supreme court held today that Congress—as well as the courts—has power to punish for contempt. The decision affirmed a ten-day jail sentence imposed by the Senate on William P. MacCracken, Jr., former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, for failure to produce data registered by his airmail investigating committee.

MacCracken was found guilty after testimony that he had permitted clients to withdraw some of the subpoenaed records from his office and to destroy others.

The same sentence was imposed on L. H. Brittin, former vice president of Northwest Airways, Inc., but he served it without appealing to the courts.

In 1929, Harry F. Sinclair, wealthy oil operator, was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $500 for refusing to answer questions during the Senate's famous Teapot Dome oil investigation. The District of Columbia supreme court—and not the Senate—imposed the sentence, however.

Attorney for the Western Air Express, the Pan American Airways, the Transcontinental & Western Air and other corporations interested in air mail contracts, MacCracken appeared before the Senate committee and declined to produce the papers demanded, taking the position he must as counsel respect the confidence existing between him and his clients.

At the suggestion of the committee he telegraphed numerous clients asking authority to produce the documents. Harris M. Hanson, president of Western Air Express, replied he could not decide until he had opportunity to examine the papers relating to his company.

He sent Gilbert Given, his Washington representative, to do that. MacCracken permitted Given to examine the files and take from them papers, some of which related to air mail contracts.

In the absence of MacCracken, one of his partners permitted Brittin to have access to the files. Brittin removed six papers, which he tore into bits and threw in his waste basket.

The Senate ordered MacCracken's arrest. "Then began a game of hide and seek," during which MacCracken presented himself at Sergeant-at-Arms Chesley W. Jurney's apartment, remaining overnight as an uninvited guest and insisting that Jurney arrest him. Jurney refused, however, for technical reasons.

On February 12, MacCracken was arrested, and at once applied to the District of Columbia Supreme Court for release under a writ of habeas corpus, challenging the authority of the Senate to punish him for contempt.

In opposing his release, counsel for the Senate contended it was acting in its constitutional legislative function, and had authority to try for contempt and punish anyone obstructing those functions.

Appealed to U. S. Court of Appeals. The court dismissed the petition and MacCracken appealed to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

There Frank Hogan, his counsel, argued the only recourse open to the Senate to cite the circumstances to the United States attorney, leaving that official to decide whether MacCracken had committed an offense and if so to bring the matter to the attention of the grand jury for indictment.

He argued the Senate was without power to sentence a person for a past contempt and held MacCracken had purged himself of the charges by going to it that the missing papers he had returned to the committee.

The appellate court decided three to two for MacCracken. Today's Supreme Court opinion was by Justice Brandeis and no dissent was announced.

Agriculture Council Abolished By Lehman

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP).—Even as its members sat in session, the Council of Agriculture which has controlled the farm branch of New York government for 17 years, was abolished by a stroke of Governor Lehman's pen today, but Commissioner of Agriculture Charles H. Baldwin remained temporarily in office.

Governor Lehman signed the McCrery Bill abolishing the council. This action opened the way for nomination tonight, should the governor wish, of Peter G. Ten Eyck of Albany as the new head of the Department of Agriculture.

The governor has already named Ten Eyck, "an Independent Democrat" as his choice for commissioner. The Ten Eyck nomination will be sent to the Senate, and might be confirmed immediately. Indications are, however, that if the nomination goes in at tonight's session it will be held in the finance committee a few days.

Lehman's action on the council was a surprise. The council, which was created in 1917, had been a powerful force in the state government.

C. W. Pound, Retired Chief Judge of Court Of Appeals, Is Dead

Stricken at Dinner in Ithaca and Dies Following Removal to Hospital—Gov. Lehman Sends State's Message of Sympathy.

Lockport, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP).—Cuthbert W. Pound, who retired as chief judge of the state court of appeals about a month ago, was mourned here today. He died in an Ithaca hospital yesterday at the age of 71.

He was stricken with cerebral hemorrhage Saturday night while addressing a banquet meeting of the Tompkins County Bar Association, held in his honor.

Taken to the hospital, he died without regaining consciousness. Alexander White Pound, a son of the jurist, brought his father's body home last night from Ithaca.

Bishop Cameron J. Davis, of the western New York diocese, will assist in the final rites and burial will be in the family plot in Cold Spring Cemetery.

Judge Pound had just begun his informal talk to the Ithaca gathering after an introduction by Judge Frank H. Hancock of Syracuse, when he said simply:

"Gentlemen, I must sit down. I'm sorry."

He slumped back in his chair unconscious.

Judge Pound was the son of Lockport pioneers. He was born June 20, 1864. His father, Alexander Pound, of Quaker descent, came from Framingham, Ontario county, and his mother, Almira Whipple, from Gaines, in Orleans county.

Roscoe Pound, widely known Professor of Law at Harvard, and Ezra Pound, the poet, were cousins of his. An chief judge of the court of appeals, Judge Pound was perhaps best known for his opinion in the state milk law test which the United States court affirmed. An obscure Rochester grocer challenged the price fixing phase of the state law in 1933. Pound wrote then that "constitutional law is a progressive science, and concluded with this sentence:

"The policy of non-interference with individual freedom must at times give way to the policy of compulsion for the general welfare."

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP).—Deeply grieved over the death of Judge Cuthbert Pound, former head of the state court of appeals, Governor Herbert H. Lehman sent the following telegram to Alexander White Pound, son of the dead jurist:

"I am deeply grieved to hear of the death of your beloved father and my very dear friend. For more than 40 years he served the state with rare devotion and outstanding effectiveness. To few men comes the privilege and distinction, as to your father, of serving his state in all three branches of government, legislative, executive and judicial."

"Just a month ago on his retirement, I had the privilege of thanking your father on behalf of his fellow citizens for his long and devoted service. The people of the state join me in mourning the passing of one of its most distinguished sons, and in sending to you and your family deepest sympathy. Signed, Herbert H. Lehman."

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 4.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense today produced support for one of his important alibis, but lost an attempt to establish definitely that he was not a man seen in an automobile with a ladder near the Lindbergh home on the day baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnaped and slain.

Henry Kloeppenburg, a friend of Hauptmann, testified he and the accused man were at Hauptmann's home playing music the whole evening of April 2, 1932, when Dr. John F. (Jafse) Condon says he paid to Hauptmann in a Bronx graveyard the futile $50,000 Lindbergh ransom.

Sebastian Benjamin Lupica, a Princeton preparatory student in 1932, testified he saw a man in a dark blue or black sedan with Mercedes county, New Jersey, license plates near the Lindbergh estate on March 1, 1932. He said the car had a ladder in it and that it was the same ladder which police exhibited later as the kidnap ladder.

He could not, he said, identify the man as Hauptmann. On cross-examination he testified the man had a resemblance to Hauptmann.

A woman restaurant proprietor testified in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann today that she saw Violet Sharpe who later committed suicide carrying a gray blanket on the evening on which baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnaped.

Cross-examination of Kloeppenburg, who also testified that Isador Fisch brought a package to the Hauptmann home during a farewell party, was directed toward showing that his memory was hazy. Kloeppenburg was made to admit that he had told police after Hauptmann's arrest he could not remember when he saw him in either March or April of 1932.

The defense contends the package which Kloeppenburg saw under the arm of Isador Fisch, who died in Germany, was a shoe box containing the block of Lindbergh ransom money which was found in Hauptmann's garage.

Peter H. Sommer left the stand early in the day after the state accused him of being a professional witness and vigorously attacked his story that he had seen two men and a woman with a blond baby on the night of the kidnaping. Sommer had identified a picture of Fisch as one of the men he saw, and said a picture of the suicide maid, Violet Sharpe, closely resembled the woman.

Kloeppenburg had to acknowledge on cross-examination that he could not say whether or not Fisch had taken away with him the package he brought to the farewell party. His testimony ended at the noon recess.

Lupica had been subpoenaed, but not called, by the state. He was chided about newspaper articles written under his name, in which he was supposed to have said Hauptmann was the man he saw. He said he was paid for the articles but never wrote them.

"You told everybody in the world that the man you saw on March 1 in an automobile with a ladder in it looked like Hauptmann. Isn't that right?" a prosecutor asked Lupica on cross-examination.

"He has a resemblance, yes," Lupica said.

"And you have always said that he resembled Hauptmann. Haven't you?"

"Yes, it is the truth."

"And you say so today, don't you?"

"Yes."

"Have you at any time said to anybody that you can definitely recognize the defendant Hauptmann as the man you saw in that car?" defense counsel asked Lupica.

"No," he testified.

"Can you identify Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the man you saw in the car that night?"

"I cannot," he said.

He followed to the witness stand Peter H. Sommer, whose story that he saw two men and a woman with a baby at an hour after the kidnaping was vigorously attacked by the state.

Lupica said the man he saw was this, about 40 years old. In the rear of his car, he testified, he saw two sections of a ladder, and said the sections were the same as those shown to him later by police.

He also testified he was at the trial under subpoena by the state, which did not call him.

New Rochelle Resident May Support the State

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 4 (AP)—Herman Keupper, of New Rochelle, N. Y., may be among prosecution witnesses summoned to aid the attempt to upset Bruno Richard Hauptmann's alibi that he was far from Biopewell the night of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

The defense last week produced August Van Henke, New York saloon proprietor, who said he was returning from New Rochelle and stopped in a Bronx gasoline station the kidnap night and saw Hauptmann there taking a police dog for a walk.

Van Henke testified he had gone to New Rochelle to visit his friend Keupper, whom he failed to find at home.

Keupper's family reported that the friendship of the two men had been allowed to lapse ten years ago. Until January 27, this year, when Van Henke again went to New Rochelle and saw Keupper shortly before he came to Flemington to testify, the men had not met, relatives said, in a decade.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz said today that Keupper probably would be sought as a witness and required to testify in rebuttal to weaken Van Henke's story.

"If these men were friends ten years ago and not on March 1, 1931, as Van Henke indicates," the attorney general said, "we will probably bring Keupper here to say so."

Keupper, however, was reported to have taken a sudden trip in Connecticut immediately after Van Henke's visit January 27 and has not returned. It was possible that state may be unable to find him.

The attorney general said other information had been obtained about Van Henke's story, which he indicated he believed would refute it successfully.

The Hauptmann Trial Calendar

By The Associated Press

First week, Jan. 2 to 4—Bruno Richard Hauptmann heard Col. Charles A. Lindbergh testify he heard Hauptmann's voice in graveyard ransom meeting; Anne Morrow Lindbergh identified sleeping garment worn by her baby when he was stolen.

Second week, Jan. 7 to 11—Hauptmann identified by taxi driver who delivered note to Dr. John F. (Jafse) Condon, ransom intermediary; Dr. Condon testified Hauptmann was "John" to whom $50,000 ransom was paid; Dr. Albert S. Osborn, handwriting expert, said all 14 ransom notes were in Hauptmann's handwriting.

Third week, Jan. 14 to 18—Seven more handwriting experts corroborated Dr. Osborn's testimony; dress model declared she saw Hauptmann shadowing Dr. Condon.

Fourth week, Jan. 21 to 25—Arthur J. Koehler, wood expert, traced lumber in kidnap ladder to yard where Hauptmann once worked and to Hauptmann attic; prosecution rested. Hauptmann denied principal allegations against him but admitted he was owner of notebook containing word "boat" spelled "boad" as in ransom note.

Fifth week, Jan. 28 to Feb. 1—Hauptmann's cross examination ended with full denial of state's charges; alibi he was in Bronx bakery on kidnap night presented by Mrs. Hauptmann, Elvert Carlstrom and Louis Kins; August Van Henke said he talked with Hauptmann about a dog on kidnap night; Luther Harding said Hauptmann not one of two men in automobile with ladder at Princeton; John M. Trendley disputed Bruno ransom note authorship as defense handwriting expert; Peter H. Sommer told of seeing a baby at Jersey ferry with woman who looked like Violet Sharpe and man who resembled Isador Fisch.

Mission to Be Held At Holy Cross

At services on Sunday in the Church of the Holy Cross, Pine Grove avenue, the rector announced that a preaching mission will be held in the parish from May 5 to May 14. This week's intensive mission from the second to the third Sunday after Easter will be for the spiritual benefit of parishioners and friends and a cordial invitation will be extended to those outside the church to attend. The last mission at Holy Cross was held just five years ago in the middle of May, 1929, a eucharistic mission of ten days' duration and conducted by the Rev. Father Spencer Burton, S. S. J., E. D. D., superior of the American Congregation of the Society of Mission Priests of Saint John the Evangelist.

At this time the mission will be in charge of two priests of one of the newest and rapidly growing religious orders in the American church, the Order of the Poor Brothers of Saint Francis, with headquarters at Mount Sinai, Long Island. Father Joseph, superior, will be assisted by Father Stephen, O. S. F., for the children.

TRIAL CHANGES BRUNO

Since his arrest and beginning of his trial at Flemington, N. J., for the Lindbergh murder, Bruno Richard Hauptmann has undergone an amazing change in dress and facial expression. At left he is shown shortly after his arrest in New York last September, unshaven, careless about his clothes, and his eyes half closed in sullen defiance. At right is a recent picture made during a lull in the trial at Flemington. Here he appears nattily groomed, clean-shaven, and his eyes are clear and shining. (Associated Press Photos)

May Testify

The state of New Jersey may call Mrs. Dwight Morrow (top) to testify in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who is charged with the murder of her grandson, Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. If called, the wife of the late Senator and Ambassador Morrow and mother of Mrs. Lindbergh is expected to tell about Violet Sharpe (below) former maid in the Morrow home who committed suicide after the baby was abducted. In defense testimony at the Flemington trial Miss Sharpe's name was linked with the kidnaping. (Associated Press Photos)

Most of the fellows who discourse so wisely on capital and labor have no capital and never did any labor.

CAPTURED BY PIRATES

What a tale these children have to tell. They and 72 other school children from the United States, England and Scandinavian countries were held prisoners 66 hours by real pirates who captured and looted the steamship, Tungchow, as it was en route to a Chinese port. Left to right, they are Pearl 8, Franklin 15, and Joan 7, children of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Swenson, missionaries from Jersey City, N. J. The pirates killed two Russian guards. The young senator-elect from West Virginia, who waits patiently in Washington and postpones crashing that great deliberative body until he's thirty, is so modest for his age that you sort of wonder whether he'll really fit in with that crowd.

Lindbergh's Birthday
Flemington, N. J., Feb. 4 (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh observed his thirty-third birthday today by returning to his accustomed seat in the Hunterdon county courtroom where Bruno Hauptmann is on trial for the kidnap-killing of the colonel's first born son. Little more than three years ago the colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, seeking the privacy they so much desired, came to this same Sourland Hills region where the spotlight of the world interest has focused for the last five weeks. The tall flyer, dressed in the customary light business suit without a vest, has been an unfailing spectator since the trial began.

'B.O.' GONE — romance budding!

SEE HOW INTERESTED THAT NEW GUY IS IN MARY. I HEARD HIM ASK IF HE MIGHT CALL...

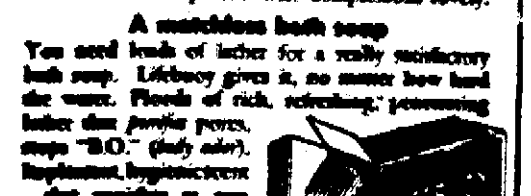

AND I SUPPOSE YOU WOULD TAKE THE CREDIT... YOU AND LIFEBOUY!

WHY DON'T YOU TALK ME UP? A GRAND COMPARISON SOAP LIFEBOUY IS?

H... the story in two words — Lifebuoy proves! Its deep-cleaning lather is amazingly mild and gentle, kind to the skin. Scientific tests made on the skins of hundreds of women show that Lifebuoy is decidedly milder than many so-called "beauty soaps." No wonder millions say, "Lifebuoy agrees with my skin." No wonder it keeps countless complexions lovely.

A matchless bath soap You need loads of lather for a really satisfactory bath soap. Lifebuoy gives it, no matter how hard the water. Froths of rich, refreshing, penetrating lather that purifies pores, keeps "B.O." (body odor) suppressed, hygienic — that washes as you soap — tells you Lifebuoy gives extra protection. Pleasant — always Lifebuoy.

Huey Packs Off Today On Return to Capital

New Orleans, Feb. 4 (AP)—Having put down another rebellion in his turbulent empire, temporarily at least, Huey P. Long planned a return to Washington today.

Problems presented by Square Deal Association members whom he accused of placing a price on his head, were left in the hands of his lieutenants and 400 state militiamen. The inquiry into the alleged plot against his life was adjourned indefinitely by Long, but it was deemed advisable to keep a reduced military force under arms to cope with "eventualities."

About half the original 800 guardsmen mobilized by Governor Allen at the outset of what he termed "armed insurrection against the governing authorities," were demobilized during the week-end.

Enroute to Washington Long will stop at Atlanta to address the Georgia legislators, provided "a large enough hall can be obtained."

"I'll have to have a large auditorium," Long said, "there will be so many to hear me."

He proposes to talk on any subject Governor Talmadge selects.

Before coming here from Baton Rouge Sunday Senator Long saw to it that the Louisiana Public Service Commission issued an order drastically lowering electric rates in the capital.

The commission's order makes it mandatory that the Baton Rouge Electric Company invoke by February 15 new rate schedules calling for reductions ranging from a minimum of 22 per cent.

Great ado made because $1,450,000 disappeared from Wall Street the other day. It used to be common occurrence enough to drop a couple of million any day in Wall Street.

We'll keep right on puzzling and quarrelling about how to regain our lost prosperity until some time, all at once, we'll wake up and discover that it's here.

"Anti-Politics" Bill May Affect Farley

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—An "anti-politics" bill under which James A. Farley would have to resign either as postmaster general or Democratic national chairman was introduced in the senate today by Senator Norris (R-Neb.).

The bill, the Nebraskan said, "takes the post office department from top to bottom, out of the control and domination of partisan politics."

The President, with "the approval of the senate, would select the postmaster general for a ten-year term. Instead of the present system where by congressmen have an important voice in the appointment of postmasters, all employees would be selected by the postmaster general for "merit and efficiency" only, Norris said. Promotions would be on the same basis.

"Congress ought to be tickled to death to be rid of the job," Norris said.

Explaining the anti-politics clause, the Nebraskan said:

"The bill provides that no postmaster or other official of the post office department, including the postmaster general himself, shall be chairman or a member of any political committee and shall not take part in the management of any political campaign. The postmaster general is directed to remove any official guilty of such practice and the President is directed to remove the postmaster general if he engages in any such political activity."

Spring Fashion Scene To Be Psychological

Paris, Feb. 4 (AP).—"Psychological" styles to fit the moods of modern woman as well as her figure are next in the varied spring fashion picture.

Declaring that in every 24 hours the modern woman indulges in more activity than her grandmother would have undertaken in a month, and that the multitude of activities bring on a multitude of moods, Lelong has launched a wide variety of 1936 clothes ready for everything from business to a flirtation.

For the analytical mood in business or shopping, he displayed trim-tweed suits, in tones of beige, brown and blue. For the same mood were simple and slender wool coats, having a small reverse, worn over plain two-piece frocks of wool and printed crepe with "no nonsense" in designs.

For the gay humor of sports there were dashing black and white plaid capes topping black skirts while for flirtations and the cocktail hour there were suits with black and white paillettes of brown and pink flowered taffeta accompanied by sheer organdy blouses.

For evening hours when the modern Eve wants to look as feminine as a flower, the designer displayed a plaid organza of flowered taffeta with violet tulle and with a full swishing skirt. For gala nights, however, when milady wishes to look as regal as a queen, he showed flowered crepes covered solidly with shimmering transparent paillettes or changeable taffetas designed with skirt fullness sweeping all to the back in a modified train.

Green pebbled taffeta with black faille fashioned in long fitted evening wraps were ready to suit the exacting whim for elegance.

DAILY BURDEN IS EASED BY THESE SIMPLE HINTS

In order to make the housewife's job an easier one there are many little things to tuck away in the mind—and bring forth as the occasion arises.

For example, if you will put a knife in warm water, then wipe it carefully before you proceed to cut in a frosted cake you will not have crumbling difficulties. Or, remember that if you put a little flour, to which a few drops of lemon juice have been added, through your chopper, such fruits as raisins, figs, dates which are to be chopped will not stick.

If you want to ripen bananas quickly just leave them in a brown bag and keep in a fairly warm place. They'll ripen overnight this way and will not spoil.

And do you know that a good pair of large scissors is better in shredding lettuce, dicing celery, cutting up raisins, and so forth than a knife. In fact a pair or so of good scissors around the kitchen is as useful an implement as you can have.

There is nothing like plenty of water. One of the reasons spinach is sometimes unpopular with children is because it is often served with hard to eat. But spinach cooks for a long, long time before you begin washing it. And garnish it a bit—help it along! Add cream just before you finish cooking it, or add finely chopped hard-boiled yolk to the top, or sliced hard-boiled egg. All these points will add to your housewife's pleasure and your comfort.

MODES of the moment

Fashion transforms the tiny turban with a jaunty touch.

Lana Marwin

Latest millinery modes for spring show many hats of forehead-revealing outline, with brims turned back from the face and forming deep sides that suggest the old-time "bonnet" era—but with that chic touch and clever trimming that definitely stamp them as new for spring.

Brims roll tightly or turn up at back and fit close to the neckline. Small shapes and shallow crowns are noted also, with turbans, bretons and profile beret silhouettes appearing frequently in the showings. Much use is made of lustrous fabrics, shiny straws, felt and attached or quilted taffeta.

In the illustration above at right is shown a very youthful poke model of black tulle with an off-face silhouette with forehead veil. The brim is turned up at back and fastens with a black grosgrain bow. There is a grosgrain ribbon band, and white gardenias trim the front crown.

Shiny waffle straw fashions the small rakish turban shown at left with its large square mesh veil. A bunch of white gardenias placed at the left side adds much style interest and gives a chic touch to this cleverly designed and approved turban style.

Crochet Your Accessories to Match

PATTERN 3299

Spring isn't much more than just around the corner and with its approach every woman's thoughts turn to dress. Be prepared for the first chirp of the robin, and crochet yourself for spring even more loudly than she did for winter. This hat is one of those that she particularly favors: it suits so many personalities and—what's important to the needlewoman—is easily made. The brim is enhanced by the double row of popcorns that edge it. And what is a hat without a matching accessory? So Alice Brooks, who has designed these exclusive models, planned this purse to go with it. A center panel of popcorns contrasts with the plainer ones at the sides. And the bag is one of those that is roomy without being bulky.

In pattern 3299 you will find complete instructions for making the set shown; an illustration of it and of its stitches needed; material requirements, and color arrangements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

Weight Gaining Popular.

Chicago (AP).—World's Fair figures show 1,294,370 persons stepped on the scales to guess their weight in 1934, compared with 1,125,478 in 1933. The fair's first summer saw crumbling difficulties. Or, remember that if you put a little flour, to which a few drops of lemon juice have been added, through your chopper, such fruits as raisins, figs, dates which are to be chopped will not stick.

Let Wind Help With Cleaning

Let the sun and fresh air aid you with the house-cleaning. Select a windy day and hang out the drapes and rugs and with a little brushing the articles will be quickly cleaned and freshened.

No quarantifiable disease gained entry to the United States or its dependencies during the fiscal year ending in June, 1934.

Sweet Potato Boats

You will be asked to repeat this delicious way of serving sweet potatoes:

Cook scrubbed sweet potatoes (chickens) until tender. Pare, cut in half lengthwise, scoop out a groove about one inch long, half each deep and one inch wide. Arrange these boats in baking dish, fill cavities with chopped pecans and spread honey and butter mixture over each. Brown in oven 15 minutes to twenty minutes.

My Beauty Hint

By JANE PICKENS (Stage)

For evening use, lighter powders give a delicate and well groomed appearance.

With one of those new stores which will shut up so handsomely into a bridge table, a modern bed which has bookshelves, blanket drawers and dressing table facilities worked into it and a new one which has a place for the hanging, the market basket and the baby, all a new family needs now to go home—keeping in four folding bridge chairs and a roof.

Nearly 250 quarts of vaccine for protection against Rocky Mountain spotted fever were manufactured last year by the public health service.

Of course there are less years. More people are living on the government than ever before.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1526-B

Slenderizing Housedress for Matronly Figures

Our pattern for the attractive dress pictured in the sketch is sure to appeal directly to the full-figured matron who relies heavily upon good designing and correct drafting for comfort in housedresses.

This model is of the princess type. The back and front—cut without a seam at the waist—is designed to eliminate unnecessary strain. The nipped-in effect is achieved by darts, and the hemline is made comfortably full by the slightly flared insets at the sides.

Revers are a distinguishing feature of the new mode. Here we have them turning back from a becomingly shaped vestee of white. They are cut with a knowing eye—wide peaks vanishing to nothing beneath a small bow.

The new cottons are indescribably fresh and summery. For simple house-frocks allow for designs in floral and geometric motifs are seen in abundance.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1526-B comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52 and 54. Sizes 36 requires about 4 yards of 36 inch material; 5/8 yard 36 inch contrast.

Tomorrow: Chic two-piece frock.

Tea Problem Simplified

It always is gratifying to the hostess to be able to prepare unusual sandwiches or light dishes with the afternoon tea following meeting of the bridge club.

For example, try this one with sliced pineapple. First of all dry the sliced pineapple on a towel and cut into squares. Wrap a piece of bacon around each square, holding firm with a toothpick. Then put them in the oven until the bacon is crisp, and place on toasted crackers, or small square pieces of toast. Serve hot.

Cream some sweet butter and mix in any kind of cheese you think your guests might like. Add some finely chopped olives and serve as sandwiches, or on pieces of thin, crisp toast.

Flowers Match Scents.

London (AP).—Harmony between flowers in the Mayfair home and the flower scents chosen by the hostess is an idea that is gaining favor. Honeyuckle, jasmine and carnation scents will make the March ball-rooms like old English flower gardens.

One of the fellows on government relief in our town the other day complained that he doesn't get enough money to be able to buy high test gasoline and that everybody goes around him on the road.

How much would you pay for a dollar bill?

THIS IS A TRUE STORY: It started with a half-serious wager, and it teaches a lesson.

Two business men were visiting a famous resort. One offered to bet the other that he couldn't sell real dollar bills for 50c apiece. The other accepted the challenge and went to work.

"How do you do," he said to a passing stranger. "Will you give me 50c for this dollar bill?" The stranger paid no attention.

The salesman tried again, and again. But nobody bought—and finally he had to admit that he'd lost his bet.

All of which suggests that people like to know who the seller is before they buy. You can trust the merchants who advertise their products in this newspaper. The advertisements offer useful, dependable information about things you need and want. Read and heed the advertisements carefully and you will reap savings and satisfaction.

Swedish Monarch Not Afraid of French Soil

Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press.
Stockholm, Feb. 4.—Unconcerned over reports that he will be guarded by detectives, against his will if necessary, during his stay in France, King Gustaf planned today to leave Tuesday for his customary annual sojourn on the Riviera.

The Swedish monarch, who is particularly eager to swing his well-known tennis arm in the Mediterranean sunshine will travel in an ordinary train accompanied only by his court attendants.

France, according to reports, is determined not to have any more kings murdered on French soil. The murder of King Alexander at Marseille appears to have made the French police especially apprehensive for royal safety.

In the case of King Gustaf it is considered more than likely that the French detectives will have to be in the 76-year-old monarch.

What will worry the king most is that having detectives around might interfere with his backhand shots in tennis. The king of Sweden can't think of a single reason why anyone should want to harm him—neither can anyone else who knows him.

King Gustaf, six-foot-two and slim, leads a life that most men of 40 couldn't stand up to.

He gets up between 6 and 7 a. m.—an hour when many good Swedes are still sleeping—and he sees no particular point in going to bed before midnight. He is an inveterate smoker.

The king takes an active part in the Swedish government. He not only signs but reads every government report, and he can still give the young fellows pointers on how to run a country.

SCHOLAR OPTIMISTIC FOR BUSINESS IN 1935

Returning today from Kalamazoo, Mich., where he attended an enthusiastic sales convention of his company, Joseph Scholiar, local branch manager for the Kalamazoo Stove Company, expressed himself as being boundlessly optimistic for business in 1935. Mr. Scholiar is one of the outstanding sales leaders in his division.

Over 250 branch men from all over the country were in Kalamazoo last Thursday and Friday and everyone told about improved conditions and prophesied a greater volume this year than last, despite the fact that the Kalamazoo Stove Company showed an increase of approximately 40 per cent over the previous year, said Mr. Scholiar.

"It is amazing how people everywhere are buying stoves and furnaces in increasing number and particularly Kalamazoo stoves and furnaces," continued Mr. Scholiar. A. L. Blakeslee, president of the Kalamazoo Stove Company, in addressing the meeting outlined an ambitious and progressive program for the current year which includes the addition of nearly 25 new branch stores and the employing of more people to take care of the rapidly expanding business. E. P. Wells, company sales manager, stated that he believed he was justified in raising the quotas of every branch in view of the highly promising prospects for 1935. Many of the increased number of customers, said he, were due to the fact that Kalamazoo quality had been rigidly maintained during the past few depression years and that satisfied users who had bought Kalamazoo products then were now recommending them to their many friends and neighbors.

A high tribute was paid to the effectiveness of newspaper advertising in bringing customers into stores and the use of daily papers will be continued.

The local Kalamazoo Stove Company branch organization has caught the enthusiastic spirit of better times which Mr. Scholiar brought back from the factory and plans are being made for an intense drive for business in this territory.

Fog and Clouds Hid Eclipse on Sunday

(By The Associated Press.)
The sun and moon staged one of their infrequent spectacles Sunday, a partial eclipse, but the spectators were scant.

Although fog and clouds of varying density obscured the phenomenon over most of the nation, scientists were not disgruntled for little would have been added to scientific data, they said, even if visibility had been of the best.

The moon obscured forty per cent of the sun at the climax during the morning. Only in sections around St. Louis was the eclipse reported as clearly visible, and in other scattered sections glimpses of the occurrence were visible.

New York, Chicago and Boston alike were overcast by skies impetrable for study of the spectacle. From Dr. Philip Fox, director of the Adler Planetarium at Chicago, came the heartening information that another identical eclipse will be visible in "eighteen years, plus ten and one-half days."

Man Resembled Bruno Student Admits

wrong side of the road and he parks on an incline, which is an entrance to a cornfield."

Sommer in Chair

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 4 (AP).—Peter H. Sommer, New York city municipal employee and defense witness whose testimony made an "I wouldn't say yes and I wouldn't say no" refrain before the weekend court adjournment, returned to the witness chair today as Bruno Richard Hauptmann's trial opened the sixth week.

Sommer faced a drumfire questioning as Attorney General David T. Wilentz resumed his cross-examination, in an effort to discredit the witness.

Sommer previously related that he saw a woman resembling Miss Violet Sharpe and a man resembling Isador Flech, Hauptmann's dead business partner, with a golden haired 2-year-old baby in a one piece sleeping suit in New York near the Weehawken ferry house on March 1, 1932, the night of the kidnapping.

Detectives have spent all week-end checking up on Sommer and the results of their inquiries gave the state ammunition for the renewed assault on the Sharpe-Flech narrative.

The jurors, Justice Thomas W. Trenchard and Mrs. Anna Hauptmann were in the court room early.

Prisoner is Sober-Faced

Hauptmann, sober-faced, was led in by his guards, followed by Chief Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly and the other defense attorneys, C. Lloyd Fisher, Egbert Rosenzweig and Frederick A. Pope, the three colonels, Lindbergh, Schwarzkopf and Breckinridge, entered at 10 o'clock. Prosecution counsel, including Robert Peacock, Joseph Langgan, George K. Large and Richard Stockton, studied papers and exhibits on their table.

Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., arrived just before court convened at 10:07 a. m. (E. S. T.).

Trenchard Irritated

Justice Trenchard, before the trial proceeded said he "very much regretted" that "movies and talking pictures had been taken in defiance of the orders of the court."

"It was done," he added, "secretly and by methods that are not commonly understood."

"This subject, this matter will be investigated."

"Those contrivances will have to be excluded from the court room and their agents and employees will be excluded," he concluded.

The jury was polled, and Sommer went back to the witness chair.

Wilentz Questions

Questioning by Attorney General Wilentz.

Q. Now Mr. Sommer as I understand it you saw a small man and a tall man help a woman with a baby on a trolley car in New York?

A. Yes.

Wilentz showed Sommer the photograph of Isador Flech again and the witness reiterated that it "resembled" the "small man" he had seen.

The witness looked at another defense photograph which he said also resembled the "small man" he had seen.

Q. You wouldn't swear, though, that these are the photographs of the man you saw?

A. I wouldn't swear positively.

Admits Mistake

Sommer admitted that he "made a mistake" Friday when he testified the man on the Weehawken trolley was the same he saw later on the ferry boat.

Q. You are a professional witness aren't you?

A. I don't qualify as a professional witness. I only came here to tell of the incidents I saw that night.

Q. I thought you came here in the interests of justice?

A. I'd say I did.

Q. Aren't you a professional witness?

The defense objected and Wilentz, voice brisk and pressing, changed the question.

A. No sir, I do not.

Q. Haven't you on occasion testified and when the money was unpaid, you stated the testimony you gave in court was incorrect and improper?

A. No sir.

Q. How many cases have you testified in?

A. Two, I think.

Half-Mills Case

The witness told his questioner of cases in which he testified, including the Half-Mills murder case.

Wilentz brought out that the man was an investigator of an agency employed by the defense in the Half-Mills case, but eventually appeared as a state witness.

Wilentz inquired about Sommer's testimony in an accident case in 1930.

Q. Didn't you testify falsely in that case?

A. I did not.

Q. You testified in that case that you were at a stand near the scene of the accident?

A. If it was recorded that way, I didn't testify to it.

Pope objection Overruled

Pope objected to the questioning as improper cross-examination and Wilentz explained he was testing the credibility of the witness. He was allowed to proceed.

Q. You know nothing about that case, about the accident?

A. Not about the accident.

Q. No, and you testified about the circumstances and condition prior to the accident?

A. No, if that is in there (the record) it's wrong. I had a row with the lawyer when I came into court.

Trenchard Intervenes

Pope again objected and Justice Trenchard said "I don't see how you can go into his testimony in another case."

Wilentz was allowed to put the direct question:

Q. Didn't you testify falsely?

A. I did not.

Pope's next objection to Wilentz's questions on Sommer being paid for his testimony and making an affidavit that his evidence was false was sustained by Justice Trenchard.

Q. You testified about things you didn't know?

A. No, I testified I saw certain bottles explode.

Q. But you make a mistake on the date. It was after the accident that you saw the bottles explode.

A. That's right.

Q. But you testified they exploded at the time?

A. Yes, I was mistaken.

Restricts Questioning

Justice Trenchard, restricting the questions, allowed Wilentz to ask Sommer if he had made errors in his testimony in that case. The witness said he had.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you only had your testimony corrected after the attorney failed to pay you?

A. No.

Q. Didn't you threaten to go to the district attorney if he didn't pay you $15?

A. No. That was my expenses.

Wilentz brought from Sommer that he was employed in the supply division of the New York city administration and then ended his questions.

Reilly asked questions on Sommer's testimony on the exploding bottles.

On the Ferry Boat

Q. There is not any doubt you were on the ferry boat?

A. No.

Q. There isn't any doubt you saw what you told us about?

A. Yes.

Q. And you reported it to the police the next day?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you alone?

A. No, I had two young men with me.

Q. And when you notified police you never expected you would testify in this case, did you?

A. No.

Reilly then turned over the witness for re-cross-examination.

Trips on Pictures

Wilentz asked the witness if he had ever seen a picture outside court of the woman he said he saw carrying the baby (allegedly Violet Sharpe). Sommer said he might have seen it in the newspapers but couldn't remember when.

He added he thought he had seen the picture of the man (allegedly Isador Flech) about a year and a half after the kidnapping.

"Don't you know," Wilentz shouted, "that that picture never appeared in the newspapers until September, 1934, after Hauptmann's arrest?"

"I don't know about that," Sommer replied.

Sommer wasn't able to identify a picture of a woman presented by Wilentz as that of the woman he allegedly saw with a baby on the trolley the night of the crime.

"You wouldn't say 'yes' and you wouldn't say 'no,'" Wilentz said.

Charged With Gallery Play

Reilly jumped to his feet and objected that Wilentz was framing the question "for newspaper headlines."

Wilentz turned to Justice Trenchard and declared:

"May I say to Mr. Reilly, through your honor, I think it comes with very poor grace from him to speak about talking for the newspapers."

Justice Trenchard allowed the question, and Sommer again pleaded his inability to identify any of the many pictures of men and women shown to him.

Re-Direct Examination

Reilly then took him for re-direct. Reilly excused him after a few brief questions.

Ben Lupica, a young Princeton student who said he saw an auto with a ladder near the Lindbergh estate at dusk the kidnap day, was then sworn. He gave his full name as Sebastian Benjamin Lupica.

C. Lloyd Fisher, of the defense, took the witness for direct examination.

Q. Where did you live on March 1, 1932?

A. With my parents in Hopewell, N. J., about a mile north of the Lindbergh estate.

Q. Did you go past the Lindbergh estate to get to your home?

A. Yes, I was commuting to Princeton Preparatory School in my car.

Q. Are you here under a state subpoena and did you testify before the grand jury?

A. Yes.

Fisher directed Lupica to recount his experiences the afternoon of the kidnapping while driving home from school.

Lupica told of encountering a man in a car with a ladder in it near the Lindbergh estate.

It was coming around the bend, it pulled across to the wrong side of the road near a cornfield.

Q. What happened then?

A. He stayed there, and I started to go on up the road, and I passed him on the right side.

Q. Did you see anything in the car?

A. I saw two sections of a ladder in the car. It was resting on the top of the front and back seats.

Q. Will you describe to me the man you saw in the car?

A. He had a dark coat. He was about 40 years old and appeared thin.

Q. Was he of foreign nationality?

A. No, he did not seem to be.

Lupica told of seeing two sections of the ladder later in possession of the police.

The witness told of meeting a resident of the area, Nelson Wickoff, to whom he recounted the incident of seeing the ladder. At the time, he said, he did not know the kidnapping had occurred.

The boy said he went on to school and was summoned to the Lindbergh estate late the afternoon of March 2, 1932.

The police, even then, he went on, prompted by Fisher's questions, did not show him the ladder.

Fisher asked that the kidnap ladder be brought into court.

Overruled Motion of the

Q. Did you observe the make of the car you saw?

A. Yes.

A. Yes, a 1929 Dodge.

Q. What was the color of the car you saw?

A. Black or dark blue.

Q. It was green by any chance?

A. No, black or dark blue.

The student testified that the car carried Mercer county, New Jersey, license plates.

Such a statement, he added, was made to the police at the time.

Q. It was not a New York license?

A. No.

Lupica testified he made a statement that the car was black or dark blue, a 1929 Dodge sedan. The police, he said, had him pick out a car of similar make.

ADD HAUPTMANN.—(6)—

Q. Have you at any time told anyone that you recognized Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the man you saw in that car?

A. No.

Q. Can you identify Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the man you saw in that car?

A. I can not.

Did Not Resemble Bruno

Fisher's last questions brought out that the driver did not resemble Hauptmann and the kidnap ladder was like the one Lupica had seen.

Lupica was released for cross-examination.

Wilentz elicited from the witness that he only caught a "fleeing glance of the ladder."

Shown an article in a New York tabloid newspaper bearing his name, Lupica testified he had been paid for that and another but he did not write them. He asserted they erroneously stated he had identified Hauptmann as the car driver and he had complained to the city editor.

The attorney general then asked Lupica if he had not called him to his office after the newspaper article, and chided him for allowing the story to appear.

Did Not Resemble Bruno

Wilentz had the student state that he was told the prosecution would permit him to say no more than what he previously told police—the man in the car resembled Hauptmann.

Q. And you said then before the attorney general, Prosecutor Hauck and a half dozen others that the man you saw resembled Hauptmann?

A. Mr. Hauptmann has a resemblance to the man.

Q. You've always said so?

A. Yes.

Q. And you so testify today.

The witness nodded.

Battle Begins

Fisher arose and shouted his question.

"You say you got a fleeting glance at the driver like the witness Hockmuth (who told a similar story)."

"We can argue that in summation," Wilentz interjected, objecting to the question.

Q. Can you identify this man (indicating Hauptmann) as the man you saw?

Wilentz objected but Justice Trenchard allowed an answer.

A. No, I can't.

Lupica was excused and a five minute recess was called.

Hans Kloeppenburg, Hauptmann's close personal friend, was the next defense witness sworn. Kloeppenburg was the man Hauptmann said made "moonie" with the ransom payment night of April 2, 1932.

Reilly Takes Witness.

Reilly took him for the direct examination.

Kloeppenburg said he met Hauptmann, who lived near him.

Q. Do you come from the same part of Germany as Mr. Hauptmann?

A. No, I come from Schleswig-Holstein.

Q. Is there a hyphen between Schleswig-Holstein?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall being at the Hauptmann home the night of April 2, 1932?

A. Yes.

Q. What day of the week was it?

A. It was Saturday night.

Q. Do you play a musical instrument?

A. Yes, mandolin and guitar.

Q. What instrument did Mr. Hauptmann play?

A. Mandolin.

Q. Now what was your custom about these musical evenings?

A. The first Saturday of each month, we would play music at Mr. Hauptmann's home.

Night of April 2, 1932.

Q. Tell the jury about the night of April 2, 1932?

A. I got to Mr. Hauptmann's home about 7 o'clock, or a quarter of 7. We played some music and cards. Then we had coffee and cake, and between 11 and 12 o'clock he drove me in his car to the White Plains subway station.

Q. He was in the house the entire evening up to the time he drove you to the subway station?

A. Yes.

Q. Who else was there?

A. No one except Mrs. Hauptmann.

Q. How many times did you see Flech at Hauptmann's home?

A. I don't know. Twenty times. I first met him in July or August, 1932.

Identifies Flech.

Shown photographs, he identified Flech and Henry Ullig, a friend and associate in business in the Bronx with the little furrier.

Reilly turned to a farewell party for Flech.

Q. Now on the evening of this party for Flech, what date was it?

A. It was on the Saturday before he sailed.

Q. Did you see Isador Flech come in?

A. Yes, I saw him at the door at the top of the stairs.

Q. Did he carry anything with him?

A. Yes. He carried a package about 5 to 6 inches high; 7 to 8 inches wide and about 14 inches long.

Q. When was the last time you saw Flech with that package in the Hauptmann home?

A. They went through the hall to the kitchen.

Reilly was seeking to impress the jury the package Flech had when he talked to Hauptmann was the shoe box filled with ransom money.

Q. When they came back did Flech have the package with him?

A. No.

Reilly stopped there, releasing Kloeppenburg to cross-examination by Wilentz.

Q. You are the gentleman who took the trip to California with the Hauptmanns?

A. Yes.

Q. You didn't know Hauptmann in Germany, or his life over there?

A. No.

Tells of Meeting Flech

The young cabinet maker told of meeting Flech at Hunter's Island in the summer of 1932.

Q. Who introduced you?

A. There's no introducing out there.

Q. You saw him many times at Hauptmann's home. They were very close friends?

A. Yes, that's right.

Flech did not remain overnight with the Hauptmanns the night of the party but left about 1 a. m. The witness could not recall whether he saw Flech depart.

Q. You don't know whether that package—whether Flech took that package away with him?

A. I am sure he didn't. He left it in the kitchen.

Q. But you did not see him go home?

A. No.

Q. Then you don't know what he took with him, when he left the party?

A. No.

Q. You remember when Mr. Hauptmann was arrested. He was still a good friend of yours?

A. Kloeppenburg could not recall the exact date of the arrest.

Wilentz recited the dates when Kloeppenburg was questioned by the police but the witness could not recall them exactly.

"It was a Friday and Saturday after the arrest," he answered. "I remember being in the Bronx police station."

Were Close Friends

Q. Now when Hauptmann was arrested you and he were close friends?

A. Yes.

Q. And you knew Dr. Condon had said he paid the $50,000 ransom and Hauptmann was being held as the man who received it?

A. Yes.

Garbo, Dietrich Bid for Spotlight

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 4. (AP)—Greta Garbo is through with the life of a recluse. If the unofficial observers in screenland's real life drama know their Hollywood.

There have been many heated rivalries between top-notch stars of the screen, but that between the former Stockholm hat model and Marlene Dietrich, appears to be heading for a smashing climax never before experienced in the film colony.

Crowding each other for popularity in foreign markets, these two stars now work at separate studios, but rumors persist that in the near future Dietrich may swing over to the film company that employs Garbo.

Up to this point, the dramatization of the popularity duel between Greta and Marlene has been ingenious. They have been under the same business agent. Occasionally they have been seen with the same friends, with mystery cloaking their coming and going in public places.

Suddenly, Dietrich espoused the male attire of men-trousers, sack-coat, four-in-hand tie. Garbo, who had been wearing, and still is wearing the rugged sports attire of semi-masculine style, may have pondered the price of her hermit existence, her high-walled Beverly Hills estate, while Marlene was seen and photographed at public places in men's evening clothes.

For a long time Garbo remained aloof from the competition with her German rival. Dietrich had Rouben Mamoulian for a director. Then things began to happen. Garbo captured Mamoulian to direct a picture for her. Dietrich had Herbert Marshall for her leading man. Garbo obtained him for her latest picture. Brian Aherne, who played with Dietrich in her reportedly being drafted for Garbo's next picture.

The last event in the chronology of the two feuding actresses found Garbo making her "first public appearance" at a Hollywood night spot where Dietrich was seated with a party of friends. When she arrived with several friends, she did not acknowledge her rival.

Reports vary on whether Garbo "nubbed" Marlene, but all those present agreed Miss Dietrich switched off the lamp at her table when Garbo was showered with attention, and stayed at the table until after the Swedish sphinx left.

If paying an old age pension of $200 will restore prosperity, why not give us $1,000 a month and maybe we will be rich enough to drive a Rolls Royce?

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver and bowel poisons before breakfast

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside, to see able to eat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; to constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is exactly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a small taste which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphate hot water every morning to 75 your system of these poisons and toxins also to prevent their formation.

Do you feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your head, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons? Begin this treatment and show all keep it up! As soon as you get hot water on the skin, cleaning, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — When Edward Arnold, the portly character actor, was introduced to George Arliss preliminary to his assignment in the star's forthcoming "Tichelleu," Arliss was rather apologetic, the story goes.

"I have heard much of your work, Mr. Arnold," he said, "I regret that I have not yet seen it."

Arnold enjoyed the older star not to be embarrassed about a little thing like that.

"You see, Mr. Arliss," he said, "I have never seen you on the screen either."

For Audience Reaction

The number of stars to whom Arnold could truthfully make the same statement is large. For a prominent actor, the screen's "Diamond Jim" Brady-elect is one of Hollywood's most assiduous stay-at-homes. In fact, he has said that the only films he ever attends are those in which he himself appears.

"No, it isn't vanity," he explains. "I go to my own pictures to see by the reaction of the audience around me, what is wrong or right with my work. I stay away from other films to avoid the possibility of copying the other fellow's tricks, good or bad."

A friend once asked Arnold why he had embraced character roles so early in his career. He has a long line of them behind him, and he is only now nearing 45, an age when many "juveniles" are still trying to be convincingly romantic for the camera. Arnold laughed at the query.

"Do you want to know why—frankly? Because I like to see. I don't have to worry about an extra pound or two!"

Maybe They're Historical

The set represented the office of the publicity director of Electra pictures. "It happened in New York" is the story of a movie star, played by Gertrude Michael. That office needed some movie stars' portraits on its walls, and the property department had responded nobly.

Likenesses of Reginald Denny, Hoot Gibson, Laura LaPlante, John Boles, Joseph Schildkraut and other former Universal contract players will be visible there, without screen credit, of course. But what makes it funny is that Miss Michael's movie star is in 1935 vintage, while the pictures as a group represent the lot's talent roster in the days of golden silence.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE R. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—With the expected break in the gold clause clouds failing to appear today, most financial markets settled back for another sleaze.

Traders in both stocks and staples showed little fluctuation to expand commitments and dullness ruled in all departments. Prices were generally irregularly lower.

Bonds and foreign exchange exhibited a disposition to mark time pending the fate of the administration's monetary program. Grains were a bit soft at times and cottons were barely steady.

Fractional changes predominated among leading shares. Although the markets were obviously disappointed over the delay in the gold decisions, the fact that the Treasury was not so far from the belief of some analysts that equities, as a whole, are now in fairly strong hands.

The opinion was advanced in brokerage quarters that the authorities would not consider it necessary to close the Stock Exchange, when the decision is announced. In addition the suggestion was voiced that the market's suspense might not be as long as anticipated by some and that the high court could spring a surprise any day by announcing its judgment after the close of business.

It was recalled that the handing down of rulings on Monday is only customary and not a matter of strict regulation.

"Stoppage" Still on At Jacobson Plant

Union and Factory Have no Statement to Make Regarding Conference Today—Union Determined to Sign all Jacobson Employees.

The "general stoppage" at the F. Jacobson & Son shirt factory, Cornell street and Smith avenue, is still on, it was announced at the office of the firm today.

Union workers called the "stoppage" Friday to force non-union employees to join their ranks. None of the workers left the factory but the unauthorized group ceased all operations.

A conference between representatives of the Amalgamated Garment Workers' Union and officials of the Jacobson firm, coming from New York city, was to have been held this morning. Whether it was or not remained a mystery at noon.

"There is nothing we have to say," replied a representative of the shirt workers' union when asked for a statement at the office of the Amalgamated in the Byrne building on Broadway, near Henry street.

"The general stoppage is still on, but non-union employees are working," came the reply from the Jacobson office when a statement was asked for there.

The unauthorized workers are determined in their efforts to force all Jacobson employees into the Amalgamated, a talk with some of the workers revealed. They said a "general stoppage" update had been effective in swelling the ranks of the union and putting two factories on an all-union basis.

Hasbrouck Pays Tribute to Pound

Among those who heard with deep regret of the death Sunday of Judge Cuthbert W. Pound, former chief justice of the Court of Appeals, was Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck of Kingston, whose acquaintance with the deceased jurist dates back through a long term of years.

Hasbrouck was reminded that Judge Pound was the guest of honor at a luncheon which he gave in Albany December 8 of last year on the occasion of his retirement as president of the Federation of Bar Associations of the Third Judicial District.

Judge Hasbrouck in commenting on Judge Pound's standing as a very competent and able jurist, said that he was also a man of unusual literary ability, outside the demands of his profession, and was also a very graceful speaker. Beyond that, however, Judge Hasbrouck had been impressed by the human side of Judge Pound's nature, the depth of sentiment which he possessed. He was, he said, a great favorite with members of the bar of Ulster county.

Governor Frank W. Higgins, in whose nomination Judge Hasbrouck played a leading part, named Judge Pound, at that time president of the State Civil Service Commission, as his legal adviser, in which capacity he served during 1905 and 1906. This was the beginning of a judicial career, which carried him through the State Supreme Court, to which he was appointed in May, 1906, and elected for a full term in November of that year, his election to the Court of Appeals and his appointment by Governor Roosevelt in 1912 to the position of chief justice of that court.

County 4-H Club Members on Radio

Four 4-H members and Bernard Joy, county club agent, represented Ulster county on the 4-H radio broadcast over Station WGY at 12:30 p. m. on Saturday, February 2. The members taking part were Lugarda Freer, Maple Hill; Kathryn Wood, South Flatbush; Mildred Davis, North Flatbush, and Arne Tervo, Rifton.

The topic of the program was "Know Thyself" and included quotations from letters written by other 4-H members, including Kathryn Ambrose, Kingston; Mary Marsh, Big Indian; Mary Herring, Ulster Park; Wallace Wood, Tilton, and Virginia Markle, Creek Locks.

The program was a presentation of the personal problems that these young people have encountered. They also told how 4-H Club work had or would help them in overcoming their shortcomings. One speaker emphasized the fact that she had learned how to cooperate and work with other people.

One of the homemaking members said that by making her own clothes she could have more clothes of a better quality. Another told how meal preparation had become a pleasure because 4-H Club work had taught her the right way to prepare and serve interesting foods. More and better vegetables for family use was the contribution to a family food shortage by a 4-H garden club member.

Particularly interesting was the fact that two members had difficulty in meeting people and carrying on an interesting conversation. They said that the regular 4-H Club meetings, the 4-H rally days and the 4-H camps had helped them to overcome this shyness.

Looking at Kings Cost

Real Money in Old Days

There is hardly any limit to the price people will give for seats at any royal show, especially a coronation or a marriage, declares a writer in The Pitts Magazine.

Looking at old records we find that people paid a "crookard" for a seat at the coronation of Henry I, and a "pound" at that of Henry II. At the coronation of King John the price was a "munka," but since the value of these coins is doubtful we are not much the wiser.

We get to a figure more understandable when we learn that in Richard II's reign the price for any royal show was a penny. In Henry V's time it had risen to twopenny, but these were all pennies worth nearly a shilling in our money. All through the ages the price rose. To see the coronation or a wedding of Henry VIII, the people paid a groat (4d.), and when Charles I came to the throne seats were sold at a shilling each.

To see the coronation of George I cost half a crown, and after that the cost of seats jumped rapidly; at the coronation of George III, front seats in the gallery at Westminster abbey were let at ten guineas each. At the coronation of Queen Victoria and for her wedding procession the fronts of houses facing the procession fetched £50 to £100.

Old Whaling Trips Kept

Sailors Away Four Years

In the old days of the whaling industry, the men who went to sea in search of these prized creatures of the deep were often gone from home as long as three or four years at a time.

Each whaling ship, says a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, carried four sharp-proved boats. When a whale was sighted these boats were let down into the water, each one manned by a helmsman, four oarsmen and a headman. The helmsman carried sharp harpoons, to which lines were attached, and threw them into the body of the whale.

Then began a great battle. The headman attacked the whale with lances, but the maddened monster often dragged the boat for many miles through the water. Often, too, he dived to the bottom, and the lines on the harpoons that held him paid out for thousands of feet.

Eventually, however, the whale had to come back to the surface to breathe, and then he was killed by a lance thrust in a vital spot.

Today most whalers are strongly built iron ships, and the small boats are equipped with cannons to fire the harpoons into the whale. A charge of blasting powder attached to the harpoon then kills the whale, which is dragged back to the parent ship by a windlass.

FAMED SCIENTISTS WORK ON MYSTERIOUS MALADY

Teaneck, N. J., Feb. 4 (AP)—The mysterious germ which killed 10 infant patients in the maternity division of Holy Name Hospital still defied today the efforts of some of the nation's foremost pathologists to classify it.

Working with Dr. L. A. Markley of the hospital's staff are Dr. William H. Park and Dr. Lella Knox, New York bacteriologists, but so far they have failed even to reveal whether the germ is of the filtrable or non-filtrable type.

This must be determined, Dr. Markley said, before the real work of isolating the germ can begin.

The disease, resembling intestinal influenza, attacked 10 of the 40 newborn babies in the obstetrical division two weeks ago. None of the mothers was infected, but within five days eight of the children died.

Two more deaths followed last week and an eleventh child was not expected to survive. His condition improved, however, and four other babies, also seriously ill, were believed out of danger today.

Health officials absolved the hospital of blame in the deaths but the maternity ward was closed as a precaution.

Looking at Kings Cost

Real Money in Old Days

There is hardly any limit to the price people will give for seats at any royal show, especially a coronation or a marriage, declares a writer in The Pitts Magazine.

Looking at old records we find that people paid a "crookard" for a seat at the coronation of Henry I, and a "pound" at that of Henry II. At the coronation of King John the price was a "munka," but since the value of these coins is doubtful we are not much the wiser.

We get to a figure more understandable when we learn that in Richard II's reign the price for any royal show was a penny. In Henry V's time it had risen to twopenny, but these were all pennies worth nearly a shilling in our money. All through the ages the price rose. To see the coronation or a wedding of Henry VIII, the people paid a groat (4d.), and when Charles I came to the throne seats were sold at a shilling each.

"THE LAST ADVERTISEMENT WAS PRINTED YESTERDAY"

*What Would the World
Be Like If
It Were TRUE?*

THE last advertisement was printed yesterday. You have cut it out and put it away to show your grandchildren. With it, a way of living as you knew it, has passed forever.

Tonight you will want to see a movie. You pull up to one—saw it last week. At another—but no, you don't like So-and-So's acting. Let's go home. It's too much gas and time to waste on a show. Next month half the theatres will close. Poor attendance.

Tomorrow you will want some groceries. You will go to the nearest grocery store and buy some. Rib roast, perhaps, and lima beans. You won't hear until tomorrow night at the bridge table that the store just next door was having a "special" on rib roast and lima beans. Pretty soon your husband will wonder why the food bills are so high. The last advertisement was printed yesterday.

Next month is Aune Jane's birthday. Well, if you think I'm going to spend half a day tramping from store to store looking for a gift that I used to find by turning a page—can't afford gifts anyway. We're spending money like water and living like poor folks . . .

Old car's wearing out. Can't afford a new one . . . Chevies and V-8's are both $1600 . . . demand's fallen off . . . they've had to put up prices to meet plant expenses. Most of the others have closed down . . . don't know how the government will feed all the new unemployed.

Fellow in Milwaukee is inventing an air conditioner to sell for $50. No one will hear of it. You will never see it. What is air conditioning anyway? The last advertisement was printed yesterday.

Advertising has brought us many things. Finer cars, better homes, silly fads and wonderful inventions that have made life easier—and longer. Advertising is no unmixed blessing. But it has helped give America a standard of living unmatched in any other place and time. That standard of living should persist as long as people have wants to fill and money to spend and eyes to read with.

It will persist only so long as the presses keep rolling.

Kingston Legion Drops Hard Fought Game To Schenectady

Staging a scoring orgy in the second period of their State League game at Schenectady Saturday night, Hank Bozila's Dorplan quintet not only overcame the Kingston Legionnaires' first-half margin but went on to win in the third stanza 31 to 27. Corky Stanton and Herb DeNubilo were the spearhead of the home team's attack, particularly in their big second period. The more experienced Legionnaires were coming along fast in the final period and undoubtedly with a few more minutes to play would have gone on to win. A crowd of over 600 rabid partisans cheered this angle of the fray and cried for their favorites to hold their lead.

Trailing 8 to 4 at the end of the first period, in which they were held without a field goal, Schenectady poured shots through the basket from all angles of the court and as a result outscored Kingston, 21-4. Their total in this period included seven straight foul shots without a miss.

Bobby Cullum replaced Tommy Weems at the beginning of the third period and Hank Kurtyka went to center with Bill Hamilton moving back to a guard position. This combination gradually cut down the home club's lead and were trailing by only four points when the final whistle blew.

Pin Koehler played his usual stellar floor game and accounted for 20 points. Kurtyka and Hamilton had 8 and 7 respectively. Stanton, DeNubilo and Sykes starred for Schenectady.

Hockey Player Hurt
Toronto, Feb. 4 (AP).—The official head injuries which have struck professional hockey players recently put Lightning (Hap) Egan of the New York Americans in the hospital today as the result of a crash into the boards in Saturday night's game against the Toronto Maple Leafs. X-ray photographs revealed that Egan suffered a slight skull fracture, a severe scalp laceration and concussion. Dr. Smith Laxson, who attended him, said Egan would be in bed for two weeks and would not play hockey again for more than a month.

Will Rogers Tells Dizzy To Hold Out Until Gold Situation Clears

By EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—Jerome H. (Dizzy) Dean has all sorts of encouragement for his announced hold-out against the financial blandishments of the St. Louis Cardinals, but there was every indication today that not even the lanky, grinning pitcher hero of the last World Series taking the situation seriously.

Accepting the plaque given him by the New York Baseball Writers Association at its annual banquet last night, Dizzy, a dazzling picture of the well dressed man in his perfect-cut evening clothes, said he "didn't think Mr. Sam Breadon, Mr. Branch Rickey and myself will have any trouble at all this year."

This came after Will Rogers had encouraged Dizzy to hold out not only until he got at least $30,000 for his 1935 services, but until he found out what the Supreme Court was going to decide on the legality of reducing the gold content of the dollar.

Well until you know what those dollars are going to be worth before you wait, except $25,000 or $30,000," Rogers said as Breadon and Rickey, only a few seats away in the crowd of 600 baseball magnates, writers and celebrities, blanched while the rest laughed.

Heywood Brown, columnist, also spoke in favor of the Dean financial cause. He said not only ball players but sports writers were poorly paid. Brown had the owners fidgeting when he accused them of being none too bright in squelching the theatrical angles of baseball.

Postmaster James A. Farley, Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, Ford Frick and William Harridge, president of the National and American Leagues respectively, also spoke as Dean received the award of the writers as the "outstanding player of the year."

Connie Mack was presented with a second plaque for contributing the most to the game during the year, and Walter (Rabbit) Maraville of the Boston Braves received the third trophy for his various services to baseball. Frick received a watch from his former co-workers, the writers.

Breadon, discussing later Dean's announcement Saturday that he was holding out for $25,000 against the Cardinals' offer of $17,500, refused to take the pitcher's attitude seriously.

"I talked with him down in Bradenton some time ago and gave him a contract," he said. "Dizzy said the figures were all right. He called me a week later in St. Louis and again said everything was fine and that he was mailing in his contract. I haven't received it however."

But I have his word that he is satisfied, will sign at the figure offered him, and until I hear directly from him otherwise, I'm not paying much attention to the stories of his holding out."

"I saw him today, but only in a group with several others, and we didn't even mention a contract. The next move is up to him. I won't even bring the subject up until we get to Bradenton if I fail to receive his contract before time to report for spring practice."

Major Leagues Will Hold Meeting Tuesday

New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—The last of the winter baseball deals may be made this week when managers and magnates come to town for the joint major league schedule meeting Tuesday.

Drafting of the schedules concerns only the owners, but there is sure to be a sizeable group of pilots around, since many of them were on hand for the baseball writers' dinner last night and are sure to remain over for the fanning sessions that go hand in hand with all baseball gatherings.

No deals are known to be definitely on the fire. However, a half dozen clubs are looking for needed talent, and are willing to talk business if they can get the men they want at the right price.

The Yankees have decided they have been approached with a proposition to send Babe Ruth and several of his mates to Chicago for Al Simmons, the hard hitting outfielder; but the Yanks have not denied they would like to find an experienced slugger to step into the Babe's old post in right field. They may make a move in that direction this week.

Pie Traynor, manager of the Pirates, has made up his mind to stand pat unless a "profitable deal presents itself," but all agree that he would like to have Al Todd. Manager Jimmy Wilson's Philly understudy, behind the bat.

Tire of playing Santa Claus with owner Tom Hawkey's thick bank with the Boston Red Sox will start with Elsworth Dugan, a coast league recruit, on first and the aging Max Bishop playing beside him.

Irving Burns and Oscar Melillo of the Browns were the men Eddie Collins wanted, but Rogers Hornsby demanded such a high price in cash and young players that even the lavish Mr. Hawkey was seen to bat an eye.

Mickey Cochrane still would like another hard hitting outfielder for his Detroit Tigers. Cleveland needs a utility infielder and both Brooklyn and the Boston Braves have spots to fill, but little to offer in return.

The Giants, Cardinals and Cubs are in good shape.

Rangers Continue Winning Steak

New York, Feb. 4 (AP).—Although the Stanley Cup playoffs still are a month and a half away, the continuation of the New York Rangers' spurt and last week's slump of the Toronto Maple Leafs already has given an indication that the old reliables of the past few years will be on hand again this season, battling as hard and evenly as ever.

The Rangers, who haven't lost a game since January 1, contributed largely to the Maple Leafs' longest losing streak of the season—three games—by trimming the league leaders twice during the week. They went on last night to make it 12 straight wins for the Rangers by turning back the Detroit Red Wings, their American section rivals, for the third place, 3 to 2, in a stirring third period rack.

The Americans went back on the losing side last night, dropping a close 3 to 2 decision to the Chicago Black Hawks, which gave the Hawks a three-point margin over the Boston Bruins, who took a 2-1 beating from the Maroons Saturday.

The Maroons staged another big advance, cutting Toronto's international division lead to nine points with three victories.

The Montreal Canadiens, struggling to secure third place in the international group against American threats, could collect only two during the week. They moved on to St. Louis to tie the Eagles at 1-1 Sunday.

Stevens Brothers Set New Bob-Sled Records

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP)—Lake Placid's famous bobbing Stevens Brothers are monarchs of American bob-sledding.

In record-smashing performances that exceeded even their own hopes, the husky athletes who got their early training as children in this Adirondack resort made a clean sweep of the National A. A. U. two-man and four-man championships on Mount Van Hoevenberg this week-end.

J. Hubert and F. Paul Stevens roared down the mile and a half run in four breath-taking heats to snare the two-man title in the total time of seven minutes and 59.37 seconds, 6.74 seconds better than the national record.

They clipped one minute and 70 seconds off the single heat course record they set in the 1932 Olympics. Twenty-four hours later, Curtis Stevens piloted his four man bob sled to a third consecutive national title in a performance that knocked 3.11 seconds off the four heat course record and 1.26 seconds off the single heat course mark.

His total time was seven minutes 3.40 seconds and his best heat one minute 44.90 seconds.

The four-man title was not won without keen competition, however, furnished by the sled driven by Donna Fox, Bronx undertaker. The latter's total time was only .39 of a second behind Stevens'.

The national situation well in hand, the Stevens' turned their attention to the tryouts this week-end to determine America's representatives in the 1936 Olympics in Germany. They have little hope of bettering further the marks they set up Saturday and Sunday, particularly in the four-man competition.

Fourteen men will be selected to represent this country in the 1936 Olympics, on basis of their performances in forthcoming tryouts and on past achievements.

Clinton Ave. Aces to Meet Cornwall Five

The Clinton Avenue Aces will meet St. John's Church of Cornwall in their regular weekly attraction at Epworth Hall tomorrow night. The visitors have compiled a brilliant record in their section and are expected to furnish lots of opposition for the Aces.

The Aces will have Teetsel, Haines, Roosa, forwards. Every center, Rifenburg, Hyatt and Van Etten, guards. There will be a preliminary at 7:30 and the main game will start at 8:30.

The Rise of Sap in Trees

The exact cause of the rise of sap in the step of trees is one of the problems of vegetable physiology that botanists have not yet been able to solve, says the Washington Star. The upward movement of crude sap toward the leaves is mainly through the ducts in the woody portion of the stem, while the downward flow of the elaborated sap from the leaves takes place chiefly just under the bark. It must not be supposed that the flow of sap in plants is analogous to the circulation of blood in animals. There is no central organ, like the heart, to regulate its flow, and the water taken up by the roots does not make one continual circuit of the plant body, but is distributed by general diffusion, partly through into the air through the leaves and partly through the plant body as food, wherever it is needed.

First Gliders in Mexico

Gliders were used by the Aztecs in Mexico 500 years ago, according to Prof. M. Tenenbaum, the Polish archeologist, who has been exhibiting his proof before scientists in Madrid, Spain. It is an engraved stone which he found in his nine years of research among the ruins of the empire, destroyed by the conquering Cortes. It shows what a Franciscan missionary described as "an ingenious application having widespread wings fabricated from the stork's feathers." The Aztecs worshiped birds, and King Nectan founded a school of aviation that his people might become more like their gods. He himself used to glide from the heights of the mountains into the deep valleys. His subjects were goggled not unlike those of today.

The Pokahony

The pokahony, Phytolacca americana, also known as pokeweed or gromwell, is a perennial that dies to the earth each year and attains a height of three to eight feet. The root is thick and somewhat poisonous but the young succulent shoots are sometimes used as a substitute for asparagus. The white flowers are in long racemes and are followed by dark purple juicy berries a quarter of an inch in diameter. These are not poisonous. The plant often grows in clearings and waste places, occasionally becoming somewhat troublesome as a weed.

Fireflies' Light Strong

Certain fireflies cast a light that, although only one-fifth of a candle power, is so penetrating that it passes through paper, flesh and wood. In fact, X-ray photographs of these substances have been made by this insect luminescence.—J. T. Fisher, Emporia, Kan., in Collier's Weekly.

Origin of Word "Clue"

The word "clue" is from the Old English "clow", a ball of thread, the thread of life, which, according to the fable, the Fates spin for every man. The figurative meaning, a piece of evidence leading to discovery, is derived from the story of Theseus, who was guided through the labyrinth by the ball of thread held by Ariadne.

QUEER VOCABULARY SPOKEN BY HOBOES

Punk Means a Boy Tramp or Loaf of Bread.

Baltimore, Md.—Most folks think sailors have the strangest vocabulary of their own, but sailors have nothing on the American hobo when it comes to quaint and curious lingo, writes Charles A. Scarpello in the Baltimore Sun. That is my final opinion after a few hobo trips of my own in which I drifted from port to port.

I was born in the City of Chicago, where I completed the seventh grade in grammar school before I ran away to sea at the age of thirteen. In my nine years of wanderings, beginning as a mess boy and now as a quartermaster, I have sailed the Great Lakes and some of the tributaries of the great Mississippi and the well-known seamen. I have been on the beach in Havana, Copenhagen and Stockholm. In between trips I have hit the trail through every state in the Union and Canada and Mexico. And the folks who think a tramp is just a tramp or a hobo ought to try the life for a while, and see.

Among the tramps with whom I have traveled in the United States are bindle stiffs, pack stiffs, misadventurers, gas hounds, mess fakers, jungle buzzards, panhandlers, bawdy bums, highway bums, dock rats, beachcombers, rubber tramps and local characters.

The Bindle Stiff.

The bindle stiff is a bum found in southern and central California mostly. You can see them any day, rain or shine, either in the jungles or walking along the railroad tracks. He is either carrying his bed roll or bindle or is followed by a young boy whom he calls his punk and who carries it for him. Most bindle stiffs are too lazy to carry it themselves. The bindle consists of a piece of canvas, two blankets or quilts, a few pieces of clothing, soap and towel, shaving and sewing gear and cooking utensils. It is tied up and slung over the shoulder.

The Pack Stiff.

The pack stiff is somewhat like the bindle stiff and you find him mostly in and around Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Montana; almost anywhere in the Pacific Northwest. He almost always carries his own pack. Lumberjacks carry a pack looking for work, but they are not to be classed as tramps like the pack stiffs.

The Mission Stiff.

The mission stiff is seen mostly in the big cities where there are lots of missions, soup lines and bread lines and they can live without work. They get up in the mission prayer meetings and tell how religion has saved them, and tell about their wicked, sinful life before they were saved. The wider the story the better, because it arouses the sympathy of the worshippers there in. The mission always feeds them, and gives them a place to sleep, and old clothes until they find a job. They never find it. When one mission wears out they tackle another. I even found several who made such convincing speeches that they began to believe in themselves and became religious fanatics. All the others detest the mission stiff. When any other kind of a tramp or bum goes to a mission, the mission stiff acts as if he was the whole cheese and you ought to bow down to him because he is "saved," and they even preach to you.

Teacher of Bumology.

In Los Angeles a few years ago the best place to get picked up by the police was just outside a certain mission. The police railroaded you on a vagrancy charge and you either got 30 days in Lincoln Heights jail or 24 hours to get out of town. This is called getting a flouter out of town.

The Hobos Have a Vocabulary All of Their Own.

Punk means a young boy and a loaf of bread. Ryno, ryno and dogmat mean old bums. A jocker is a teacher of bumology. A buck is a Catholic priest. A baxjo is a trying pun. A telegraph is a series of the cans each smaller than the other carried inside each other for cooking in the jungles. A kippon is a mattress of straw or wadded paper. A woman's id quilt. Gas is denatured alcohol distilled in equal parts with water. Peoria may be a city in Illinois or come. To a tramp it is a dish of potatoes and onions, first boiled and then fried. A shack is a railroad brake-man. A hole is a railroad sidetrack. A mallee is a mountain locomotive. A town clown is a constable. There are plenty of other words more familiar to most people.

Family Gets Together First Time in 25 Years

Kenton, Ohio.—Separated by the death of their parents 25 years ago, members of one family were reunited recently at a family dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Iverson at Mount Victory, near here.

Audion Hayfork Found

St. John, N. B.—A 200-year-old Audion Hayfork, believed to be the oldest in Canada, has just been placed on exhibition at the New Brunswick museum here. Henry and Frederick, the fork was used by early French settlers. It was found in the barn of an old Louis Brook (N. B.) farmer.

Cable-Entire

A submarine cable made of copper and steel wire and covered with gutta-percha and hemp does not sound so scientific, but when submerged it is capable for the detection of the currents on which they feed, and get tangled in its dream and dream.

IN ULSTER COUNTY BANKS

Editor, The Freeman:

The statement of balances, subject to draft December 31, 1934, in various New York state depositories, as listed in "State Bulletin" of January 15, 1935, for the month of December, 1934, also receipts and disbursements for December, 1934, (published pursuant to Chapter 56, Consolidated Laws) insofar as totals are concerned, appears as follows: Balance, close of business, November 30, 1934, $161,343,630.58. The above totals represents various state funds of which the Department of Taxation and Finance and Department of Audit and Control are joint custodians as well as funds in custody of Tax and Finance Department.

The report of state funds deposited locally in Ulster county banks are listed as follows: Saugerties: First National Bank and Trust Company, $10,000. Saugerties Bank, $40,000. Kingston: First National Bank of Rondout, $35,000. Kingston Trust Company, $67,000. National Ulster County Bank, $60,000. Rondout: National Bank, $40,000. New Paltz: Huguenot National Bank, $40,000. Highland: First National Bank, $10,500. Marlborough: First National Bank, $15,000. Wallkill: National Bank, $20,000. Ellenville: Home National Bank, $25,000.

The following represents balances (as of December 31, 1934) of funds deposited, insofar as Ulster is concerned, in various banks as reported by officers, state departments, institutions, commissioners and boards as in accordance with Section 9, Finance Law. Institution for Male Delinquent Delinquents, Napanoch: Ellenville: First National Bank and Trust Company, $22,404.71. Home National Bank, $14,292.58.

CHIROPRACTORS HOLD
DISTRICT MEETING HERE

The tenth district of the New York State Chiropractic Society held a meeting Sunday afternoon, February 3, at the office of Chiropractor William H. Pretsch, 72 Presidents Place. There was a large number of chiropractors in attendance from Orange, Sullivan and Ulster counties. Chiropractors Froude, Kaplan, Mackinnon, and Pretsch, members of the state organization representing Kingston, arranged this meeting which proved both educational and enjoyable. There were several fine speakers, among them Chiropractor Joseph Kilien of Newburgh, who gave an interesting lecture on X-ray work, its relation and necessity with spinal deformities. He stressed the importance of the new full-length X-ray photographs recently developed by chiropractic research workers and which were shown to the general public for the first time at the semi-annual convention of the New York State Chiropractic Society, held in Syracuse last month. In these pictures, which are the actual size of an adult person, each standing approximately six feet in height, all of the bones and joints of the body are shown at once and permit a complete analysis of nerve interference in the entire body. This type of X-ray photograph is said to be the first of its kind ever developed in the history of healing science.

A paper on the relationship of pelvic distortion to body distortion was read by Chiropractor B. J. Kaplan of Kingston. He stressed the far-reaching effect distortion at the base of the spine can have on remote parts of the body, chiefly through pressure on vital nerves as they make their exit from the spine. Chiropractor J. S. Mason of Ellenville read the minutes of the mid-annual business conference of the New York State Chiropractic Society, held in Syracuse January 12 and 13. This brought on considerable discussion of the bill, now to be voted on by the legislature, which would recognize chiropractic in this state. "All chiropractors would be required to take an examination prepared by the Board of Regents, if this bill became law," Mason said. "Thus protecting the public to the fullest extent. By this method only properly trained and qualified chiropractors would be granted a license to practice. At the present time, anyone, no matter what his training and if he has sufficient audacity, can hold himself out to be a chiropractor. We cannot urge too strongly that the legislature remedy this deplorable situation soon."

Light refreshments were served after which the meeting adjourned.

MAMMOTH DAM THROTTLES COLORADO RIVER

When this massive three-million pound gate was shoved down into the waters of the Colorado river, Boulder dam began its official function of creating for irrigation, power, and conservation purposes the biggest lake ever to be made by man. Scant ceremony marked the occasion; only a wave from an engineer as a signal and the huge gate was lowered. Inset shows Frank T. Crow, construction engineer for Six Companies, Inc., builders of the dam, who gave the signal. (Associated Press Photos)
